Mike Standup, Kahnawake

Introduction of Facilitator and Event

General welcome to meeting by Nakuset and introduction of Rheena Diabo – facilitator.

Nakuset provides background on how the meeting came about. A needs assessment was conducted on Urban Aboriginal Needs initiated by Regroupement des Centre d'Amite. The needs assessment identified the need for services and programs for Urban Aboriginals to improve working together. A presentation will follow on this study. Also there was a survey conducted by NWSM that explored the opinions of urban groups to come together. A meeting was held with INAC representatives to discuss their potential assistance in hosting a process to follow up on these two action research projects. The purpose of the meeting would be to assist all those involved with providing services to Urban Aboriginal clients explore potential partnerships and enhance existing ones. INAC provided financial support to cover costs for the use of a meeting room, translation services and meals for this meeting. So the role of the Native Women's Shelter of Montreal has been as an advocate for this meeting.

Comment by Nakuset:

It is now up to this group to come together to determine what we want to accomplish and our next steps after this meeting.

Agenda Review and Housekeeping

Rheena Diabo presented agenda and outline on activities planned for the day, noted it is a very ambitious agenda. She shared that requests had been made by several participants to make presentations to the participants on key developments in their service areas. She further noted the possibility for presentations by other groups at end of day with time permitting would be based on how efficiently time was used to realize meeting goals, so everyone's cooperation was critical.

Guidelines for the workshop were proposed and participants commitment was secured to operate under the guidelines. Projection of break times, reminder of lunch in meeting room with invitation to all participants and facility layout was noted.

Request for cell phones to be turned off, put on silent and take calls outside of meeting room to prevent disruption.

Introduction of all Participants

Go around the room with each participant asked to provide their name, position held and what is the last thing you ever explored?

All participants introduced themselves as requested.

Facilitator's comment: Based on what has been shared, we observe a richness in the room, created by the experiences of those working in the field for a long time and people in new positions. This will make for a good day.

By Dianne Ottereyes Reid- Cree organizational representative & Marie-Josée Bonin – Directrice de la Diversité Sociale de la Ville de Montreal 2006- 2007

Power Point Presentation

Silos and Systems

By Rheena Diabo

Brief outline on the silo effect, how they impact organizations, create barriers and allow clients to fall between the cracks. The presentation listed some of the contributing factors to the creation of Silos.

Overview given on trauma, traumatic events and Post Traumatic Stress incidence among Aboriginals and their communities. Traumatic Events in First Nations Communities combined with unhealthy change and the disconnection from the land put Urban Aboriginal population at high risk for a variety of stressors, health and social problems. As service providers to this population it is critical to devise strategies that will reduce the silo effect and improve service delivery. This meeting is dedicated to that end.

Participants were then organized into (6) work groups.

Short exercise with 8 volunteers was conducted to provide a visual demonstrating the importance of communication between partners in overcoming the barriers created by silos.

Power Point Presentation

Partnerships

By Rheena Diabo

Overview with handout on types of partnerships provided to participants as a reference during the course of their work group dialogues.

Questions posed in the presentation: How then do those who provide services to Urban Aboriginals overcome the silos to ensure services are provided in the most effective way possible and at a quality that is necessary to the clients? Can partnerships play a role? The rest of the day will be devoted to exploring partnerships, how to work together, build on the skills of participants and use the talent in the room to determine where participants feel this process needs to go.

Instructions were provided to groups as well as roles and responsibilities of the facilitator, recorder, timekeeper and presenter; time was given for each table to select who from their group would do each role. Instructions were given for flip chart constructs.

The meeting's morning session concluded with a reminder the meeting would reconvene at 1:30 sharp.

Lunch Break

Native Women's Shelter of Montreal Annual General Assembly and Election

NWSM Annual General Assembly opened, annual report presented. Elections for NWSM board conducted, new board presented. NWSM Annual General Assembly concluded. Majority of participants stayed for the lunch and had the opportunity to observe an Urban Aboriginal organization's annual general assembly.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Meeting reconvened and groups requested to return to their tables and begin to explore questions posted in power point slides. The following lists each question as well as the summaries of the dialogue that were recorded on flip charts and presented to the participants.

Powerpoint Presentation

Exploring the Next Steps

By Rheena Diabo

Based on what has been presented and explored, how do we move forward? We must carefully examine our involvement and commitment to follow up. Things to consider:

If not this then what?

If not you then who?

If not now then when?

Group Work on flip chart continues.

Exploration Activity # 2

A) Based on the results of the group work done so far is a network a practical and effective strategy to begin to improve on meeting on the needs of Urban Aboriginal Clients; then what should be some of the next steps taken to build on this work? (Prioritize the items in your response in terms of what should come first).

- Go back to our organization to share with colleagues today's outcomes
- All organizations need to get the minutes, etc.
- Start thinking in terms of "sub-committees" along interest lines (homelessness etc.)
- Constitute a bank of resource-persons in the Montreal with various key abilities
- For each organization there is a need to "refocus" on what they do best, so that to be efficient partners (less competition)
- Each organization to start thinking of "training needs" for their staff around their refocused mandate.
- Receive today's minutes
- Review Them
- Set up meeting (Invite/Coordinate)
- Determine who will come to the next meeting
- Develop sub-committee

- Appoint a member from each committee in charge of communication
- 1-Liaison person from each organization present today can serve on the larger Urban Aboriginal Council.
- People present today have the responsibility of sharing the information of today's meeting with other organization members to enhance over representation of existing aboriginal services.
- Once established, the larger Urban Aboriginal Council will divide into sub-councils
- Sub councils will meet more frequently than the larger Aboriginal Council; meetings will provide space to share individual sub-committee's Initiatives.
- Clarify Mandate
- Organigram (visual) according to accountability e.g. subcommittee
- Identify space
- Establish frequency of meeting, reporting of action plan
- Look/find funds and establish budget/costs
- Appoint date for next meeting
- Identify main contact/responsible person of this collective
- Collect information for database of organizations
- Identify Individual from each organization with continued commitment
- Seek out organizations no present
- Hear voices from entire community and all as well as the organizations
- Include external communities, organizations, ideas, examples, cities etc.
- Need concrete proposals
- Identify common issues and goals
- Prioritize issues and goals
- Identify subcommittees
- Establish action plans
- Identify partners and membership
- Identify funding sources for network
- Set up next meeting
- Address Issues and move forward
- Facilities: First Peoples House at McGill University, Botanical Gardens- Auditorium Building of First Nations Garden for subcommittee or committee for Arts and Culture and events, Health Services Canada

CONCLUSION

Based on what is contained in the report and our observations during the group work conducted, it is the conclusion of the consulting team, there is common:

1. Agreement that a network would help to improve services to Urban Aboriginals.
2. Recognition that silos do exist and a network would help to remove some of the barriers created by these silos
3. Opinion that not all potential partners were present at the meeting so there needs to be an effort to engage them and expand the present contact list to include these potential partners and continue to invite them to follow up activities
4. Need to come together on a regular basis to:
 - share information
 - identify common issues shared by service providers of Urban Aboriginals
 - collaborate on addressing these issues (strategies & action plans)
 - explore how this work can be accomplished through subcommittees

RECOMMENDATIONS

Considering the above and based on our community development experience, it is our recommendation that

A) Any follow up should include:

1. A mechanism to formally establish an Urban Aboriginal Network as this presents the most practical vehicle for partnerships given the diversity of the partners and the varying levels of commitment at this time. The network has the potential to eventually develop into something more substantive as needs change.
2. Developing clearly defined terms of reference for this network that will assist workshop participants securing support from their respective organizations to participate in this network and its development.

B) To sustain momentum and maintain participation levels,

1. Follow up meetings should occur no later than mid January 2009.
2. Report should go out before the 2008 holidays (December) and include the invitation to attend the follow up session with the proposed agenda
