CBC is transforming the way it serves Canadians where they live. Our vision is to reflect Canadians to each other on every available platform while creating a deep understanding of our communities and the people who live there. An important part of our commitment is producing programming in eight Indigenous languages, This includes programming in Cree to serve the people of Eeyou Istchee James Bay.

We are hiring a Manager, Journalism and Programming to lead the team that produces Cree language programming on radio, TV and digital in Quebec. The position is based in Montreal, where the successful candidate will lead the Cree programming unit.
